who i am

I am a fullstack developer with a strong focus on JavaScript and experience building applications with React. Through my professional experience and programming challenges, I have honed my skills in creating dynamic web applications, solving complex problems and collaborating in agile teams.

I also have experience with PHP, giving me a versatile foundation to adapt to various development environments. Beyond my passion for technology, I'm an outgoing person with a great sense of humor. My "superpower" is learning: I quickly grasp new concepts and apply them effectively.
